

REACH Statement

The REACH-directive is applicable to any company within the EU that produces/imports/distributes or uses chemical substances, chemical preparations or objects with chemicals.

Within the reach directive Mifa is identified as an end-user. Mifa however does not supply chemicals or add chemical substances or preparations to its products which require registration according to this directive. Therefore we can state that all aluminium products supplied to our customer comply with the REACH-directive and no additional measures have to be taken for these products. Where the REACH-directive is applicable within Mifa, appropriate measures have been taken to comply with legislation.

All offers and agreements concerning deliveries to be made and/or services to be performed by us are subject to the general conditions of sale and delivery for the metal and electro technical industry, filed with the registry of the District Court of the Hague (number 139/1996) by the Association FME-CME on 10 December, 1996.

On request we can send you our general conditions.
